Road-Bridge Contract Goes to H. E. Sargent

The contract for construction of bridges and .44 mile of bituminous concrete road, replacing the present "overhead bridge" in Bethel village was awarded Wednesday to H. E. Sargent, Inc., of Sillwater at $345,044.48. This project at the junction of routes 2 and 26 includes bridges of the railroad and Mill Brook.

Other companies bidding were: Wyman & Simpson, Augusta, $361,595.30; Owen M. Taylor & Son, Inc., Winthrop, $364,758.75; A. P. Wyman, Inc., Waterville, $366,232.60; W. H. Hinman, Inc., Westbrook, $369,823.10; Bridge Construction Corp., Augusta, $369,905.00.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The 1961 tax bills will be mailed to resident property owners on Friday, Sept. 1st. The non-resident tax bills will be mailed the latter part of this week. Prompt payment of the tax bill will avoid hiring any further tax anticipation money this year. The usual amount of $75,000 has been hired and is to be repaid on or before Dec. 31st.

The Chapman Street soil-cement construction project is near completion. The process of applying the cement was done on Monday and Tuesday. This was followed by an application of a seal coat of asphalt this Thursday morning which will seal the cement, thus retaining the moisture content in the cement, causing it to cure more slowly. A little later an asphalt mulch will be applied as a wearing surface. There has been no change in the grade, except the curves have been banked slightly. This type of project requires an unusual amount of machinery. A cement spreader was rented from a Pittsfield contractor. The pulvi-mixer and vibrat-pack roller were rented from Auburn contractors. A total of 1515 bags of cement was used. The finished length is 1300 feet, the width 23 feet. The Bethel Water Company has been very cooperative in replacing old service lines and any other work required in their water system on the street, so as to avoid disturbing the new street surface.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coulter of Newton, Mass., were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul King over the week end.

DANCE IS DISCOVERY

Dance, more than any other single activity, involves the child totally — the body, the mind and feelings. Because of this, dance both broadens and deepens the natural process of growing up.

In the early days of modern dance and of progressive education, there was great emphasis on freeing the child to "express himself." It took some years of experimentation and trial and error for educators to realize that creativeness requires not only freedom, but discipline; not only something to express, but a mastery of the instrument and medium of expression. In dance, the instrument is a strong, flexible, well-coordinated body. The medium is a movement vocabulary that is broad and varied. Children learn that dance is made of time (rhythm), space (direction) and energy (dynamics). Through experimentation and exploration they learn to handle these elements, so that their dance says what they want it to: They discover that movement can be slow and calm like a lazy summer's day, or fast and sudden like a thunder storm; it can be high as a rocket soaring into the sky, or low as a worm inching along the ground; it can be strong like anger or soft like fog. As their improvisations develop, they find that a dance made all of one speed, or one level, or one dynamic, becomes monotonous. Dance, like all art (and life) needs contrast. And so they discover a need for form. In its simplest terms, a dance needs a beginning, a middle and an end. Dance develops a sharpened awareness of sights, sounds and feelings. Children learn about the world through their senses. They watch the wind blowing in the trees and see that a drooping weeping willow moves differently from a tall straight pine tree; they watch the rain bouncing off the sidewalk or trickling down a window; they listen to the long wail of the siren or the short pop of bubble gum. In order to dance these sensations and feelings honestly, the children are stimulated to explore their world more deeply. Their dances grow in depth, and incidentally, but not unimportantly, their everyday living is more intently felt and enjoyed.

Dance is intimately related to music, poetry, drama and the graphic arts. As we explore some of the common elements, like rhythm, color, shape and form, the children are not only exposed to new cultural experiences, their familiar experiences take on newer and richer meanings. They hear things in music and poetry, and see things in painting and sculpture that they didn't hear or see before. — Susan Farrar.

The meeting was then adjourned and while refreshments were served by Diane Farrar and Noreen Swan, the leader tested the new sewing machine. — Secretary, Joyce Burnham.

4-H NEWS

The Woodstockers of Bryant Pond held a meeting at the leader's home, Nancy Cross, August 16, 1961, at 7:00 p. m.

The meeting was called to order by Vice President Marie Swan, and the 4-H pledge was repeated. Treasurer, Diane Farrar gave her report and then collected the club dues. Roll call was given.

Old business was asked by Vice President Marie Swan. Club leader told about Russell Clark coming to next meeting with a judging contest, and spoke about finishing up demonstrations. It was decided to hold a public meeting next meeting and have each member give a demonstration either before or after the judging contest.

New business consisted of quite a few things. A recreation committee is to be planned for each meeting; a document was voted on by members, rules were added to it; next meeting will be held at the Grange Hall on Thursday, August 24, 1961, if that date is agreeable with Mr. Clark; refreshment committee at that time will be Marie Swan, Linda Gaugler, Joyce Burnham, Mary Abbott, and Sally Brooks. An invitation was sent to the members and parents of the Jolly Workers.

The meeting was then adjourned and while refreshments were served by Diane Farrar and Noreen Swan, the leader tested the new sewing machine. — Secretary, Joyce Burnham.
